Lisbon yard creates 40 new jobs

The Lisbon Boatyard (Centro Náutico de Algés) opened in January 2012 with hard stand facilities for 300 boats.

Located on the River Tagus in Lisbon, Portugal, the yard is managed by a new company created by three partners - Marina de Lagos, its parent company MSF and boatyard specialist Sopromar. The joint venture won the bid for a 27 year concession.

With a customer base of recreational vessels in the Tagus estuary and those sailing along the Portuguese west coast, Lisbon Boatyard offers a broad range of services including timber, metal and GRP work, electronics and rigging. It has a slipway served by a Marine Travelift boat hoist.

The facility, which has been constructed at an investment cost of €2.7 million, will also include a two-storey building with workshops, chandlery, a training centre, showers and offices. This is in build and work is currently being undertaken in temporary facilities. When fully operational, the yard will employ a staff of 40.

The 300-boat Lisbon yard is served by a Marine Travelift mobile hoist.
